ORIGINAL STYLE OF TRIPLE SEC

Distillerie de Grandmont Triple Sec Curacao Blanc is a historically accurate and authentic style of triple sec inspired by the French liqueurs created in the 1800s. Karim Karroum of Distillerie de Grandmont has sought to taste as many early examples of this liqueur as possible and recreate it in the closest way possible in texture, aroma, and flavour.

ROOTED IN TRADITION

Distillerie de Grandmont looks back through history to recapture the liqueurs of the past using traditional, old-fashioned methods of production. Founder Karim Karroum became obsessed with vintage alcohols after opening a 1959 Saint-Emilion in 1997. Disillusioned with modern approaches to aperitifs, he established Distillerie de Grandmont in Limousin, recreating these lost treasures of French gastronomy using only wild, natural ingredients as they were made in the past.

BRIGHT AND ELEGANT WITH NOTES OF ORANGE & TANGERINE

Distillerie de Grandmont Triple Sec Curacao Blanc immediately radiates bright and elegant citrus notes, leading to bitter orange and juniper. On the palate there is a rounded texture with an initial complex bitterness tempered by vibrant lemon peel and cardamom. The finish showcases a plethora of complex citrus, from bergamot to kumquat and lime, before ending on warm baking spices.

MADE WITH ORGANIC GRAIN ALCOHOL, CITRUS & HERBS

This liqueur starts with a base of organic grain alcohol before a guarded recipe of various citrus fruits, peels and barks along with natural plants, spices and herbs are macerated to infuse their unique flavours. These herbs and spices are left to steep in the alcohol to infuse their rich and complex aromas into the spirit, creating an incredibly complex liqueur.

PERFECT FOR COCKTAILS

A vibrant Margarita or Sidecar are made even more delicious with this Triple Sec; it is equally delicious served long over ice with soda on a hot day.
