RICH AND FRUITY SLOE GIN FROM IRELAND

Boatyard Sloe Boat Gin, developed in Co. Fermanagh, Ireland, is made by steeping handpicked, wild-grown sloe berries in a bespoke gin for six months. Each bottle contains 420 grams of sloe berries, resulting in a rich, intense and completely natural flavour.

SWEET PLUM, CASSIS AND DRY JUNIPER

Notes of juicy plum, cassis, with hints of honey and almond, and a tartness from the sloe berries. The natural sweetness of the sloes requires only a very small amount of organic, unrefined sugar for balance.

SIX MONTHS MACERATION TIME

Before maceration, the sloe berries are frozen, which ensures the skins are broken gently, allowing the juniper-heavy gin to absorb the juicy flavours. Minimal filtration ensures maximum flavour delivery.

FAMILY-RUN DISTILLERY

Boatyard is an award-winning distillery located inside an old boatyard on the banks of Lough Erne in North West Ireland. The first legal distillery built in County Fermanagh in 130 years, Boatyard is genuinely different - innovative, open, transparent, obsessed with quality, family-run and passionate about distillation.

B-CORPORATION CERTIFICATION

Its ethical, sustainable and environmental practices earned Boatyard the B Corp status in 2023. It is the first distillery on the island of Ireland to receive the recognition, receiving a score of 92 points (80 points is the minimum required for a pass).

IDEAL FOR SIPPING NEAT, MIXING WITH TONIC OR INTO COCKTAILS

Boatyard Sloe Boat Gin is a joy to sip neat, especially in the cold winter months. It can also be mixed with tonic for a fruity, lower ABV Gin & Tonic, or used as a base for cocktails. Our favourite is a Charlie Chaplin, where you shake it with apricot brandy and fresh lime juice and serve straight up.
